Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments filed August 9, 2005, have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 4-8 have been considered but are deemed to be moot in view of the new grounds of rejection. The new grounds of rejection are necessitated by the added limitations that the notch tapers to a point.

Applicant argues that adding a limitation that the notch tapers to a point overcomes the problem with the notch being irregularly shaped. Applicant is mistaken. By adding this limitation to the irregularly shaped limitation, instead of replacing the irregularly shaped limitation, the question becomes how the notch is tapered and irregularly shaped. The specification does not indicate the answer to this question.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Throughout the specification the notch 28 is characterized as having an irregular cross sectional area (e.g. page 4 line 10-11). The drawings (e.g. fig 3) show and the specification (e.g. page 4 line 12-13) supports that the notch tapers inwardly to a point, and compares this to the prior art, which has a rectangular notch. A tapered surface is a regular shape, and therefore one of ordinary geometric skill would be confused as to how it can be characterized as being irregular. It would appear that what the specification indicates as irregularly shaped is the taper. If this is true, it is confusing since, in general, tapers are regular shapes. If this is untrue, it is unclear how the notch is irregularly shaped, in addition to having a tapered shape. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1 line 4-5 “irregularly shaped metered porting notch that tapers to a point”, and claim 4 line 5 and claim 5 line 4 “irregularly shaped servo drain metering porting that tapers to a point” are confusing, for the reason discussed above in the objection to the specification. It is suggested that “irregularly shaped “ be deleted, to overcome this rejection.

Claims not specifically mentioned are indefinite, since they depend from one of the above claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Claims 4-8, inasmuch as they are definite, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b) as being anticipated by Rampen. Roeske discloses a rotary spool valve (fig 4, 5) disposed partially in a spool sleeve (fig 6), wherein the rotary spool is connected to a pump (via 130) and a drain (132) and has servo fill and servo drain metering ports that tapers to a point (232); wherein the rotary spool is rotated to create an “error” signal (i.e. generating a fluid flow). Note that the preamble is considered intended use, and therefore is given no patentable weight.

Conclusion

Claims 1-3 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

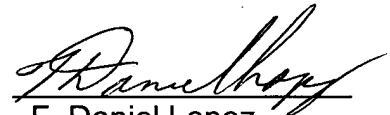

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).
